Welcome back to Rick Shaftan and thanks everyone for your support of the WTFDA!

January is over and it's just as well. For most of us in the TV and FM Dxing hobby the only thing memorable about January was the almost unending extremely bitter cold temperatures. January is the month when some DXers go on the various message boards or prop loggers and talk about everything except TV/FM Dxing.

A FEW CLUB STATS

We ended up 2017 with just shy of 190 club members. We probably have a bit over $4500 in our club checking account. At this time we are printing 11 paper VUDs for a few US members without computers.

The printing cost for those paper VUDs totaled $492. Postage was about $137. The post office box for #501 was $66.

We gave a $50 gift to our Python guru in Ohio as thanks for him getting the database site back up after our Host upgraded their version of Python on the site and killed the database. Thanks, Dreamhost.

Mail to the post office box has dropped to the point where I only need to check it once a week.

As a side note, I just paid again for the post office box and the USPS just raised that to $72 for a year.

So once again, thank you to every one of you who stays with WTFDA. Without you, there's no us.

Enjoy all the translator listings this month. We'll see you next month with even more of them. -Mike

A number of stations either went dark or enacted Channel Sharing Agreements on the 23rd. 90-day extensions granted for a number of stations mean this will happen again on April 23rd.

According to my count, 133 stations told the FCC they wished to enter Channel Sharing Agreements. (CSAs) This includes CSAs agreed to before the auction, and stations which indicated they wished to enter a CSA after the auction.

Of those 133 stations, 95 have filed agreements. 27 have instead surrendered their licenses and gone dark. That leaves eleven stations unaccounted for. I believe they all have extensions until April to find a partner & get their paperwork filed.

UPCOMING METEOR SHOWERS

FM News for February 2018

[Changes made to The WTFDA Database (db.wtfda.org) through 26 January 2018]
 NOTE: The FCC has assigned call letters to over 500 newly-authorized translator stations under the AM Revitalization Effort. Those stations are listed here and indicated with [new] after the call sign. Where multiple stations are noted as being //, the first listed is the station for which the new translator is licensed. The fact that a new station is now in the FM database and assigned calls does not mean it's on the air yet, but one of the last steps in that process has been accomplished. If you log any of these new stations, be sure to report to your appropriate DX column.

NBC to pull KENV affiliation

Written for the Elko Daily Free Press by Suzanne Featherston [Dec 14, 2017]

ELKO DAILY FREE PRESS

ELKO — KENV loses its NBC affiliation Dec. 31. Starting in 2018, the station will offer entertainment shows instead of syndicated programs and local news.

The station on channel 10 is licensed by Las Vegas-based Intermountain West Communications Co. and has been operated by Sinclair Broadcast Group since 2013. KENV had been receiving its NBC broadcast through the Sinclair-owned Reno affiliate KRNV. Local news produced by a small local staff supplemented the national programs.

KENV will stay on air with “Comet,” a sci-fi network that Sinclair created with MGM. Local news, however, will be unavailable on KENV, as the loss of the NBC affiliation makes it cost-prohibitive to generate programming unique to Elko.

“Losing our NBC affiliation makes our local news operation financially infeasible,” said KENV General Manager Amie Chapman. “We are proud of the news coverage that our station has provided the Elko community over the years and hope that the NBC in Salt Lake City, or other Salt Lake stations for that matter, will continue that tradition.”

Chapman said the local employees including two reporters are employees of Intermountain West, and “we are still assessing the staffing needs of the station post-NBC, but they would be welcome at our other Nevada stations or our Salt Lake City station.”

The fate of the studio, located on the Great Basin College Campus, is undecided.

“We are still assessing this,” Chapman said.

After the cutoff date, Elko-area viewers wanting to watch national NBC programs must tune into the Salt Lake City NBC affiliate, KSL-TV on channel 5, via satellite or cable. That’s because Elko falls into Salt Lake City’s designated market area, a geographical region in which local TV viewing is measured and audiences are shared, according to The Nielson Co.

Audiences will also be able watch the KRNV channel out of Reno, which the Elko Television District plans to rebroadcast, as long as legally allowed.

“The TV district has plans to continue to broadcast NBC here in Elko until we know for sure what the plans of KSL are,” said Dale Lotspeich of Eagle Communications, the TV district’s contract employee and former Elko County Sheriff. “[We] would need something from the station or feds ... some type of official notification that we are not authorized to translate that.”

Lori Gilbert conducts an interview at the KENV studios in early 2016.

The Elko Television District Board of Directors, led by Chairman Paul Gardner of Elko Broadcasting, will discuss which NBC affiliate to share at its regular monthly meeting 6 p.m., Dec. 14 at the Elko County Nannini Administration Building.

"We do want to continue NBC network service to the community because we think that is important," Gardner said. "We do a survey every couple of years. Our constituents have voiced very strongly that they would like Nevada news, and we all are Nevada taxpayers, so why would we not follow up with Nevada content?"

Sinclair stated that the Federal Communications Commission's Oct. 24 decision to eliminate the broadcast main studio rule is not related to KENV losing its NBC affiliation. The commissioners voted 3-2 to reverse an 80-year-old rule that required radio and TV broadcast stations to have a main studio located in or near its local community, saying that the change would produce cost-saving benefits.

"The main studio rule had nothing to do with the changes at KENV," Chapman said. "They are the result of losing our NBC affiliation."

KENV, Elko's first TV station, went on air in March 1997 after Sunbelt Broadcasting (now Intermountain West) invested more than $1 million for equipment and a building it leased at Great Basin College, according to Elko Daily Free Press archives. At that time, the station was managed by Jim Elliott and staffed by a full-time anchor and Lori Gilbert, who started as a part-time reporter and anchor.

Representatives of GBC could not be reached for comment about the future of the studio by press time.

OTTUMWA — KYOU, Ottumwa-Kirksville's longtime FOX affiliate, will also launch an NBC affiliate in the market later this month. KYOU NBC will be seen over the air on 15.2 and on most local cable providers.

"With major events like Super Bowl LII and The Winter Olympics right around the corner, we're proud and excited to bring our viewers a local NBC affiliate," said KYOU Vice President and General Manager Michael Elrod.

The new channel will broadcast in high definition. In addition to top NBC prime and sports programming, the lineup will include new syndicated options for area viewers.

"This new affiliation is another way we continue to serve and invest in the Ottumwa-Kirksville community," said American Spirit Media owner Tom Henson.

KYOU NBC will begin broadcasting the week of Jan. 24. KYOU's FOX programming and local 9 p.m. newscast will continue to air on 15.1.

Digital Subchannels Outperform Cable Competitors, Report Finds

Digital subchannels outperform top cable brands in audience coverage and household ratings, according to a new report from Katz Media Group. The report found that as cord-cutting and cord-shaving drive down the number of subscribers at most cable channels, the coverage gap widens between them and more widely available broadcast digital subchannels.

Katz found that the eight top networks available on digital subchannels — MeTV, Grit, Antenna TV, Laff, Escape, This TV, Bounce TV, and Create — were more widely available than leading cable channels such as Food Network, CNN, Discovery Channel, and TBS. The report also found that in Nielsen live-plus-seven household ratings, the top digital network, MeTV ranked 20th out of all cable and broadcast networks, ahead of cable channels such as A&E, FX, Lifetime, TLC, Bravo, and MTV.

"People consider [digital networks] a last-tier option for an advertising investment when, in fact, they're performing at or above a level of cable networks that are consistently considered for investment," says Stacey Schulman, executive VP of strategy and analytics for Katz Media Group.

The report, released Monday, also found that digital networks have seen their audiences grow at a time of relative stagnation for cable and broadcast. From May 2016 to May 2017, average Nielsen live-plus-seven household share grew 42% for digital networks. Over the same period, it grew only 2% for cable and declined 4% for broadcast.

Digital subchannels emerged following the conversion of broadcast TV from analog to digital transmission in 2009. Most subchannels are managed by local broadcast stations, and airtime on them is typically leased to digital networks. Many such networks draw audiences with schedules consisting primarily of library programming — such as MeTV, which focuses on classic series such as "Alf" and "The Andy Griffith Show" — sometimes geared toward particular genres.
